Berlin Denies Story Of Incipient Revolt Within the Country

By the Associated Press

Advices from "somewhere on the German frontier" said persistent reports of incipient revolution in Germany coinciding with the debacle on the Russian war front had impelled the German foreign office to issue a middle-of-the-night denial.

These advices said the Wilhelmstrasse called foreign correspondents from bed one night this week and told them of the reports and the official denial. The foreign office asserted that the reports were spread by British and American sources.

Some of the correspondents expressed surprise that the stories created so much concern in the Wilhelmstrasse that it was felt necessary to make an immediate denial.

On the fighting front, the British radio quoted a Moscow announcement that 12,000 Germans had been killed in the Volkov and Tikhvin sectors on the Leningrad front since early December.

Soviet front-line dispatches declared that Red army troops advancing over the wintry battlefields at a pace of more than four miles a day had recaptured Mozhaisk, 47 miles west of Kaluga, and further tightened the vise on 100,000 Germans still holding out at Mozhaisk.

Russian spearheads were reported within 25 miles of the Vyazma-Bryansk line, where Hitler is expected to rally his fleeing armies for an attempted stand deep in the rear of the Mozhaisk salient 57 miles west of Moscow.

A British radio broadcast said the Russians also were plunging forward in the Orel sector, 200 miles southwest of Moscow, "and killed here 6,000 German soldiers in the last five days."

The Swiss radio, quoting dispatches from Moscow, said communications on the 600-mile rail line between Moscow and Rostov-On-Don had been reestablished.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that "defense fighting continued with undiminished violence" on the central "Moscow" front and in the northern (Leningrad) sector.

Where German reports a few months ago told of Nazi panzers raging over the Soviet country, side, sweeping wide to engulf and finally "annihilate" trapped Russian forces, today's dispatches pictured the Germans as suffering the same fate.

On the Leningrad front, Russian columns driving down the Volkov river were reported advancing upon the big German base at Novgorod, 120 miles southwest of Leningrad, in an encirclement move which might cut off the Nazi siege armies before Leningrad itself.

In the Crimea, the Germans faced a similar encirclement by Russian troops now pouring into the Black Sea peninsula in great numbers.

The extent of Soviet landing operations in the Crimea was illustrated by a German High Command report that Nazi planes in new attacks had sunk a 4,000-ton Russian troop transport and damaged three merchant ships and a cruiser in Black Sea waters.

Japan's air dispatches indicated late today that British troops had abandoned Kuala Lumpur, the world's crude rubber capital, 240 miles north of Singapore, as Japanese troops advancing 50 miles in 24 hours through the Malayan "green hell" jungles reached the outskirts of the city.

There was, however, no confirmation from the British that they had yielded Kuala Lumpur.

Earlier, an official Tokyo radio broadcast declared that Japanese forces, led by heavy tanks, had opened a general assault on the southern part of the city this morning.

British Far East headquarters tersely acknowledged that battle-weary British imperial troops had withdrawn "farther to the south" from the latest of a series of defense lines 50 miles north of Kuala Lumpur. No details were given.

Domei, Japanese news agency, said the Mikado's invasion forces were closing in on the city from two directions—one moving down from the northwest, the other from the north.

Domei said the north column

NAZIS ARE PREPARED FOR JOLT

Bern, Switzerland, Dispatch Declares Axis Newspapers Have Ignored Recapture of Important Russian Cities by Soviet Army, Admitting Operations Have "Entered Critical Phase"

EMPHASIS IS PLACED ON EXTREME HARDSHIP

By Max Harelson

Bern, Switzerland, Jan. 10.—(P)—Axis newspapers have completely ignored the recapture of important Russian cities by the Soviet army, but Adolf Hitler's personal press chief, Dr. Otto Dietrich, admits that German military operations "have entered an extremely serious and indeed critical phase."

An article by Dr. Dietrich, appearing yesterday in all German newspapers and quoted by the Swiss Telegraph Agency, declared, however, that Hitler will "know how to overcome this crisis."

Most German press accounts these days put particular emphasis upon the extreme hardships to which the German troops are exposed.

Rome and Berlin newspapers, as well as the Italian and German communiques, concede the initiative rests with the Russians in all sectors, but their usual way of describing the action is to say the Red army attacked with strong forces, but was repulsed.

On a few occasions, the communiques have stated the German lines were penetrated, but they always have added that the cost was heavy to the Russians.

The German papers do not mention the fall of such places as Kaluga, Kozh, Volokolamsk, which the Russians report they have retaken, but they have admitted Russian landings in the Crimea. However, they asserted these landings were being dealt with according to plans.

Before the Red army started its present offensive, the Germans conceded the loss of Rostov, but said the German forces there withdrew without a battle.

The German press no longer refers to the high command's plans for "straightening lines," which originally were given as the reason for expected withdrawals.

PINCESS HOHENLOHE TO LEARN FATE SOON

Philadelphia, Jan. 10.—(P)—Internment of Princess Stephanie Hohenlohe, long a figure in international political circles, for the duration was up to the U. S. attorney general today.

Such action was recommended by the enemy alien hearing board, which received the princess last month from the Gloucester, N. J., immigration detention center, where she has been held since taken into custody in Philadelphia.

The board has no power of commitment, merely making its recommendation to the attorney general, who is empowered to act.

The move may have cleared the way for a special session, if Governor James decides the plan can be adopted by the legislature.

Meyers and Rep. Leo A. Acherman, chairman of the five-man Democratic delegation on a special legislative committee which has been studying the problem since the general assembly quit in disagreement last July, declined to comment.

Washington, Jan. 10.—(P)—Sweeping new restrictions on the civilian use of lead were ordered today by Donald M. Nelson, priorities director of OPM, to divert a greater supply to war materials.

The order was similar to recent copper and tin conservation edicts. It prohibits the use of lead in most civilian manufacturing and sharply curtails the amount in a few essential products.

The lead order provides that after April 1, 1942, lead cannot be used in the manufacture of automobile body solder, as ballast or keels for pleasure boats, blocks for leather cutting, in building supplies, in caskets and casket hardware, in foil, ornamental glass, regalia, badges and em-

House and Senate at Odds Over Fast Time

Washington, Jan. 10.—(P)—The house and senate were at odds today on a daylight saving time bill to conserve electricity for war production.

The senate last Wednesday passed a measure permitting President Roosevelt to advance clocks as much as two hours whenever and wherever he saw fit. Yesterday the house adopted a bill to set clocks ahead one hour, all over America, until six months after the war, leaving the president no discretion.

The differences are expected to be settled in a conference committee.

RE DISTRICTING KINK ADJUSTED BY DEMOCRATS

Chairman Meredith Meyers Declares Leaders Have Reached Compromise to Settle Reapportionment Argument

DETAILS UNANNOUNCED

Harrisburg, Jan. 10.—(P)—Democratic leaders have reached a compromise which State Chairman Meredith Meyers says settles the year-old controversy over reducing Pennsylvania's congressional districts from 34 to 32.

The move may have cleared the way for a special session, if Governor James decides the plan can be adopted by the legislature.

Meyers and Rep. Leo A. Acherman, chairman of the five-man Democratic delegation on a special legislative committee which has been studying the problem since the general assembly quit in disagreement last July, declined to comment.

SUPERIOR, WIS., HAS $2,500,000 ELEVATOR BLAZE

Two Explosions, Followed By Fire, Destroy Part of Great Northern Railroad's Giant Grange Storage Plant

SEVEN PERSONS HURT

Superior, Wis., Jan. 10.—(P)—Two explosions, followed by fire, destroyed the Great Northern railroad's elevator X, giant grain storage plant, today with loss estimated at $2,500,000. Seven persons, including two firemen, were injured fighting the blaze in sub-zero temperatures.

At 8:45 a. m., Central Standard Time, firemen were trying to prevent the blaze from spreading to other elevators and oil storage and coal docks in the heart of the city's vital lakefront defense production section.

The fire was fanned by a high wind and all buildings in the area were threatened.

The first explosion rocked the building, injuring five employees. The second blast hurled two firemen nearly 100 feet.

The authorities were unable to determine the origin of the explosions immediately.

The injured men were taken to St. Mary's hospital where attendants said they were not hurt critically.

Fire Chief Edward Nelson said the Federal Bureau of Investigation (Turn to Page Nine)

Washington, Jan. 10.—(P)—The war department told Jack Dempsey today that he was too old to be in the army, since he had no prior military service.

The former world's heavyweight champion applied for enlistment in New York City and asked that his age be waived.

In a letter to the New York recruiting office, Col. Harold C. Gilbert, who directs the army recruiting activities, said, however, existing law prevented approval of the request.

Dempsey is well within the recently-expanded draft age limit of 18 to 64, but not liable to compulsory military service.

Washington, Jan. 10.—(P)—The United States Golf Association today cancelled all of its 1942 national championships, including the amateur, the women's title event and the public links tournament.

While cancelling all of its national championships, the U. S. G. A. said it would not take any action on sectional tournaments, leaving that to sectional officials to determine.

Joe Dey, secretary of the U. S. G. A., pointed out that the action would have no effect on the winter tournaments, since they are controlled largely by the Professional Golfers' Association. Both organizations, however, are working together on exhibitions for the benefit of various war relief funds.

PLANS FOR DEFENDING CIVILIANS

Informed Officials Estimate Equipment Procurement Program Eventually May Cost Government $500,000,000 in Addition to Outlays in Potential Air Raid Areas

MASKS FOR 50,000,000 COME TO $175,000,000

Washington, Jan. 10.—(P)—Ultimate passage of the civilian defense bill will set in motion an equipment procurement program which eventually may cost the federal government $500,000,000 or more, in addition to large outlays by states and cities in potential air raid areas.

Informed officials made this estimate today as a conference committee of senators and representatives attempted to compose differences between the civilian protection measures passed by each branch. The house bill limits the initial authorized cost to $100,000,000 and transfers administrative control to the war department.

The senate version places no restrictions on funds and leaves control with Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York.

Administration leaders predicted that LaGuardia would retain his directorship under the final enactment. They based this partly on President Roosevelt's action yesterday in naming Dean James M. Landis of Harvard Law School as "executive" of the OGD to take some of the burden off LaGuardia, who also must run the affairs of New York City. Landis will help in framing policies and get the personnel to carry them out.

The first $100,000,000 appropriation for civilian defense will be only a drop in the bucket compared to the ultimate cost, according to OGD officials. The budget bureau already has before it a request for more than $250,000,000 and gas masks alone for 50,000,000 civilians in the potential target areas for enemy raiders will

Washington, Jan. 10.—(P)—U. S. Senator Joseph E. Guffey, who has invited two score Pennsylvania Democratic leaders to a conference in Washington next Wednesday to discuss the 1942 political campaign, won't commit himself as a possible candidate for governor.

"When the proper time comes, I will personally state my position regarding the governorship of Pennsylvania," Guffey said in Washington, after State Chairman Meredith Meyers had expressed the personal belief that Guffey would not aspire to the executive mansion.

Meyers said he thought Guffey would be "foolish to give up six years in the senate for four years as governor."

Guffey asserted: "I have never declared myself to be a candidate for governor. I have never stated that I would not be a candidate for governor."

Meyers, meanwhile, reported the Democratic state committee would be called together probably during the week of February 22. The chairman, as well as Guffey, has asked for an "open" primary and abandonment of the committee's custom of endorsing a slate of Port Allegany, Jan. 10.—(P)—Fire raged through a two-story brick business building in the heart of this McKean county glass making town, causing loss estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000.

The fire was discovered at 2:30 a. m. and firemen from Port Allegany, Eldred, Connersport, Smithport and Routeville battled the stubborn blaze more than eight hours in zero temperatures before it was brought under control.

A two-floor center in a first floor drug store owned by John Case was believed to have started the fire. Flames wrecked the drug store and a dime store, then spread upward, severely damaging second floor quarters of two dentists, a physician, law and insurance firms and a beauty parlor.

Port Allegany, Jan. 10.—(P)—Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, will report next Monday morning at the Chicago induction center for his preliminary physical examination. Army authorities announced today.

Louis, who successfully defended his title in New York last night by knocking out Buddy Baer in the first round, first will report to his draft board on the south side. Then, with other draftees, he will go to the Chicago induction center for examination.

Japs Are Believed Planning to Renew Offensive on Luzon

Out in the Cold

Big New York fire failed to warm Mayor La Guardia and he got a check frostbitten. Few hours later House of Representatives gave him another chill by voting to relieve him of his job as Civilian Defense chief.

Hostile air activity again was said to be limited to observation flights. It was the third successive day of a relative lull in fighting between General Douglas MacArthur's army and the foe.

While fighting between General MacArthur's army and the Japanese was said to have dwindled to minor skirmishes, United States and Dutch navy announcements told of Japanese submarine and air raids in Netherlands India waters. Authoritative quarters in Batavia believed a major Japanese invasion thrust was imminent.

The 8,000-ton American ship Ruth Alexander of the American Presidents Line was destroyed by an enemy plane off the Dutch islands, the navy announced, with one crew member killed and four injured.

Considerable Number of Enemy Vessels Appear Off Coast of the Southernmost Philippine Island of Mindanao, Indicating Probability of Additional Landings in That Section

MAJOR THRUST LOOKED FOR IN NETHERLANDS

Washington, Jan. 10.—(P)—The war department reported today intensive patrolling and artillery duels between the Philippine defenders and the Japanese and said heavy enemy reinforcements were being brought up.

These reinforcements were apparently ordered in preparation for a renewed Japanese offensive drive on Luzon.

Also the department said, a considerable number of enemy vessels had appeared off the coast of the southernmost Philippine island of Mindanao, indicating the probability of additional Japanese landings there.

Hostile air activity again was said to be limited to observation flights. It was the third successive day of a relative lull in fighting between General Douglas MacArthur's army and the foe.

SELECT WARREN AS CENTER FOR WARNING PLAN

Selection of Warren as one of 37 air raid warning centers in the state for the protection of the 97 counties was announced in Harrisburg today by the State Council of Defense.

Warren was one of 23 western Pennsylvania cities picked this week to complete the state-wide system of warning boxes. A. L. Cotton, representative of the state council for District 8, will come here next Tuesday to arrange for the local installation. It was reported by Allen M. Gibson, county defense council chairman.

Each center relays warnings to surrounding towns, industries and other vital points after an "alert" is received at the box from the army interceptor command.

HUNTERS URGED TO REPORT ON KILL OF GAME

Game Protector George L. Norris today appealed to all hunters to submit their 1941 game-kill reports to the Harrisburg office of the Game Commission before January 16.

"Your prompt cooperation in this important matter will be greatly appreciated both by myself and the Commission," Protector Norris said. "It will help greatly to expedite the tabulation of the game-kill, save considerable time, effort, and money, and avoid the necessity for collecting $2.00 from negligent hunters."

"Last year the Commission received 89 1/2% of the hunters' reports. The year before the percentage was the same, namely, 89 1/2%. This year the Commission would like to see a 100% response. It would be very gratifying to me if the hunters in my district who took out a license last year sent their reports in immediately, whether they killed any game or not. It's just as important for the Commission to know if they didn't kill any game as it is to know that they were lucky," he concluded.

ENEMY'S INDUSTRIES

Concentrated in an area little larger than New England are most of the war industries of Japan. They are hard for allied bombers to reach, but once hit are highly vulnerable to mass destruction.

RED CROSS IS GIVEN PRAISE BY LEGION HEAD

None knows better than ex-servicemen the value of the American Red Cross.

The thoughts of all Legionnaires have been put into words in the following statement by Lynn U. Stambaugh, national Legion commander, who says:

"During the last World War, the American Red Cross was hailed as the greatest mother of all. Whenever the suffering of a war brought tears and heartaches, these her gentle hands were laid in alleviation of pain, sorrow, and distress.

"We are engulfed in another great war. During its course and in its wake will come a deluge of human grief. The American Red Cross is again on the job. Already Red Cross staff members are stationed at strategic outposts, and have been ordered to meet emergency needs resulting from enemy attacks.

"The Red Cross is now engaged in raising a fifty million dollar war fund. In this it should have the wholehearted help and support of every loyal American. I am calling on the 11,780 posts and 1,600,000 members of The American Legion to respond to this appeal from the Red Cross as their first service for God and Country in the present emergency.

"Our great channel for giving always has been the Red Cross. When you give to the Red Cross, something of your heart, something of your soul, something of yourself goes with the gift. Your gifts are bestowed not with any expectancy of any return. They are given in order that the world may be a fitter place to live in, that men may be restored, that suffering may be relieved, that the face of the earth may have the blight of destruction removed from it, and that wherever force goes, there shall go mercy and helpfulness.

"There can be no finer expression of the love that is in your heart for America, than by giving now, all you can, to the Red Cross."

NAME OFFICERS OF OLD GUARDS AT FRIDAY MEET

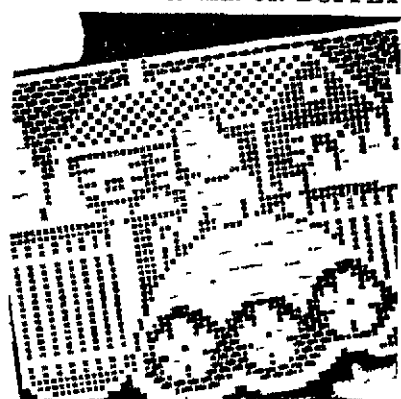

At the annual meeting of the Old Guards, held Friday morning at the Y. M. C. A., George Pierce was elected president for the coming year, succeeding A. E. Johnson. Other officers are Richard Mason, vice president; E. W. Smiley, secretary-treasurer, and C. S. Kirchartz, publicity chairman.

Speaker for the occasion was the Rev. S. R. Schieb, pastor of the Salem Evangelical church, who gave a very interesting talk on the Middle East and Far East sections where the war is being fought.

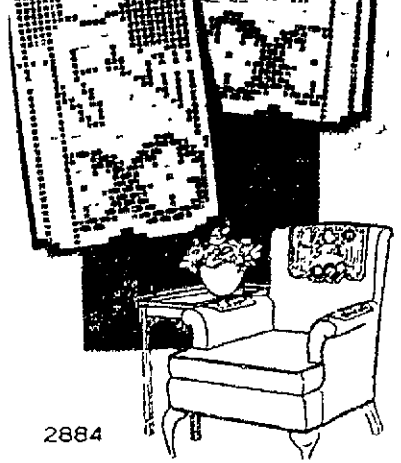

It was announced that the speaker at next Friday's meeting of the club will be an official of the forestry department.

There were 16 members in attendance at yesterday's meeting.

BEAUTIFY CHAIR OR BUFFET

During the first four months of 1941, about 20,000 more babies were born in the United States than in the first third of 1940. Census Bureau statisticians predict a rate of 18.5 for 1941—only 0.3 less than the last reported (1937) rate in Germany.

You Can't CHARGE Your Income Tax!

Your first income tax installment has to be paid on March 15th . . . it can't be put off until later. This year many people who never had to pay income taxes will have to pay a tax on their 1941 incomes . . . those who have had to pay taxes before will pay more—considerably more—this year!

The taxes will be paid from one of two sources:

1. From Savings or Reserves;
2. From Current Earnings.

Many of us have not saved the money to pay this bill. Our income tax will have to be paid from our pay envelopes . . . and this is where the bank comes in!

Why not apply for a Personal Loan to take care of this emergency? The loan can be repaid in monthly installments to suit your income.

FAMOUS FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT TO SPEAK HERE

Though they may win "some immediate and temporary successes" the Japanese have not "a ghostly chance of winning the war."

So reports Vincent Sheean, famed observer, who returned to the United States from a trip throughout the Far East and the South Pacific on the eve of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Sheean, who will speak here on Thursday, January 15, at 8 p. m. at the Woman's Club auditorium under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Forum, flew to Auckland in late September. He went on to Sydney, Batavia, Singapore, Bangkok, Rangoon, Chungking and Hong Kong, returning home via the Philippines, Guam, Wake, Midway and Hawaii. His lecture, which will be on the subject, "The War Around the Globe," will deal with the latest developments in the conflict.

Because the Japanese are operating much nearer their bases than either the Americans or the British, they are likely to win some of the first battles of the war and the American public "must be steady against the possible impact of bad news," Mr. Sheean declares.

With their many important bases in the Far East and the size of their army and air force, it is foolish to expect the Japanese to fall at all points.

However, Mr. Sheean declares that the Japs are extending themselves to the utmost now — over spaces much greater than, for example, Hitler ever attempted.

"They must lose whenever the American, British and Chinese efforts are coordinated and we can take the offensive," he says.

WE'RE SITTING PRETTY

Due to the farsightedness of aviation-minded citizens of Warren some ten or fifteen years ago, and fine cooperation of the borough council, the community boasts one of the few airports in the section that continues to operate by complying with CAA regulations for the protection of plans. Considering the fact that operations have been suspended on fields at Clearfield, Corry, Titusville, Greensburg, Greenville, Ridgway and St. Marys, Warren is indeed fortunate.

Passing of "Jim" Berger, as he was known to every older resident of Warren and vicinity, snaps another link between the Warren of Today and the Warren of Yesterday. "Jim" was a true gentleman and those who mourn him today can be grateful for his influence and hope that they might bring into their own lives some of the qualities that distinguished him during the sixty years that he resided in this community.

Indication that interest in and enthusiasm for war relief projects is not limited to the urban sections is seen in a report of a meeting of women in the vicinity of Smith Corners for the purpose of forming a Red Cross unit to get its sewing and knitting activities under way. There were eleven present and on one of the coldest days of the winter. That's real patriotism.

Warren's music lovers demonstrated again last evening that it takes more than zero temperature to keep them home when a real artist is appearing in town. The Woman's Club was filled almost to capacity for the recital given by Sidney Foster, talented young pianist, under the auspices of the Warren Concert Association.

The best coasting of the winter is being enjoyed by youngsters of the borough right now, much to the apprehension of motorists who are complaining of the danger of accidents under existing conditions.

Old Man Winter has shown us plenty of stuff this week, and he can turn on the heat any time now.

Now more than ever you need the church. Attend services tomorrow!

WEEKLY SERMONETTE

"FURNISHED FAITH"
H. L. KNAPPENBERGER
Grace Methodist Church

II Peter 1:5, "Furnish your faith."—Moffatt.

Every newly-wed gets a great thrill out of buying the furniture in preparation for going to housekeeping. Every piece must not only have utility, it must also fit into the house or the room and with every other piece. The rugs, draperies, curtains and upholsteries must match. It is a great experience to furnish a home. It is a task that is never done.

Religious faith in its beginnings is a great deal like an empty house to be furnished. The analogy continues after religious faith has been furnished once because new concepts, new ideas, new inspirations need to be brought to it again and again if it is to be a vital, thrilling experience in life.

For some folks faith is an empty void, a word, little more. It has no reality for them. They lack faith or having had it failed to furnish it and it has a hollow sound as all empty places have.

For others faith is furnished like an old-fashioned parlor-stuff, straight-backed, uncomfortable chairs, settee, ingrain carpet and over all a heavy musty smell due to lack of use or lack of fresh air. Faith for them is made up of high sounding credal statements which have a musty odor because they are entirely removed from life.

Then there are those whose faith is like the back room upstairs that is furnished with odds and ends, left over and gifts one didn't dare refuse; it is furnished with opinions gathered here and there without any logical or intelligent arrangement. Such faith does not reach far into life.

For the Christian, faith is a sense of personal relationship with God which convinces one that he is in touch with the Eternal and that the Eternal can be depended upon. The Apostle Peter suggests all this in three words when he says in his Second Letter, chapter 1, verse 5, Moffatt's Translation: "Furnish your faith."

"Furnish your faith." With what shall we furnish it? Furnish it with intelligence. Make every article of your faith conform to the best you know, the teachings of Jesus Christ.

Furnish your faith with enthusiasm. Be enthusiastic for your church, your faith, your God.

Your faith should also be furnished with steadfastness. Be constant in your religious practices day in and day out. Then your faith, while never making any great parade, will be a sustaining force in all your daily living.

Furnish your faith with courage, the courage of your convictions. Do what your faith demands without counting the cost.

Finally, furnish your faith with reverence. Only so can you maintain your faith a glowing fire that will warm not only you but others.

Make your faith a furnished faith.

EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON

Times-Mirror Washington
Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 10.—News of the third meeting of the ministers of foreign affairs of the 21 American republics, convening at Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 15, may be buried by war bulletins, but just the same, this conference is important in relation to what happens next in the western hemisphere.

These Pan-American meetings used to be largely oratory. They're getting over that now and these sessions of the foreign ministers, after the plenary opening session, and the speeches of welcome are out of the way, have been proceeding on the "What are we here for? Ok! Vamonos! Let's get going idea."

Whereupon they break up into committees and try to get something done. Also, the delegates and their technical advisers are beginning to know each other now, and the informal gatherings around the hall and up in Guillermo's room, do almost as much for building hemisphere solidarity as anything settled around a conference table.

A good bit of formality was necessary in the Buenos Aires conference in 1936 and at Lima in 1938. That was the wishful, sentimental period, but at the meetings of foreign ministers in Panama in 1939 and Havana in 1940 there was the real threat of the European war forcing the delegates to adopt realistic policies for safeguarding the hemisphere.

WELLES HOPEFUL

The tide has now definitely swung in our direction, thinks Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles. The United States representative at the Rio meeting, The American republics are standing together and they manifest a greater desire to show unity with us. In addition, there is an element of fear involved—a fear of what this war may do to nations not technically involved—that prompts collaboration. No one can talk about or predict what policies the meeting will adopt, but none of the United States delegates goes to Rio at all discouraged about the possible outcome.

For the first time, a much more varied assortment of advisers goes along with Mr. Welles. The undersecretary is generally regarded as sufficient unto himself in handling diplomatic angles of any international meeting, but so involved are the issues that a panel of experts from government agencies other than the State Department will make up the contingent from Washington. ## STORIES IN STAMPS

Hong Kong Harbor Was Once a Pirate Hideout

THE harbor on the island of Hong Kong, where a small British garrison showed surprising resistance to heavy Japanese attacks, has developed from an obscure pirate haunt to one of the world's greatest ports in the century that it has been an English possession.

Its deep, sheltered harbor, pictured on the stamp above, was issued in 1941 to commemorate the 100th year of British rule, is 10 square miles in area.

Before the British occupation the island was desolate, populated only by a small fishing colony, and was a natural hangout for pirates and contraband smugglers who dealt in the opium trade.

It was during the Opium War of 1839-1842 that the English utilized the harbor as a base for their ships. It has a strategic importance since the port has east and west entrances and commands all sea approaches. Hong Kong was ceded to Great Britain in 1841 and confirmed by the Treaty of Nanking the following year.

Before World War II the harbor was the chief center of the Far East passenger service and was second only to Singapore as a tin market. On the path of the chief trade route to China, Hong Kong tended to become Japan's center of trade with south China.

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—In the small capital groups that assemble in Washington these days around the luncheon tables, over cocktails, or on "off evenings," a visitor would be impressed by the great number of times President Roosevelt is quoted as one of the major prophets of this war who has been almost invariably right.

It is something that has nothing to do with politics, with factional fights, with approval or disapproval of domestic policies. It is now an expression of confidence by friend and foe alike, that in the theater of world affairs and international conflict, the President has done a neat piece of turn-calling.

But in the days since then, there are many in those small Washington circles who remember President Roosevelt said all that and more way back last summer, they are wondering how he didn't anticipate himself by more than four months—and if he didn't thus say in August what the United States would come to full awareness of in January.

It was at a sweltering Tuesday afternoon press conference. The President, lolling back in shirt-sleeves, began what at first seemed a rambling discourse on the state of the nation and the world. He used, as he often does, that indirect method—drawing parallels from other days and other crises. He talked of World War II continuing through 1943 and said plainly that the people of the United States were not yet aware of the staggering task ahead of them.

Then, he shifted to a quotation from Carl Sandburg's last biography of Lincoln. The time was 1862, September. The Union had suffered some of its severest reverses. The Battle of Antietam—"the bloodiest single day of fighting of the war" was just over. Lincoln was talking to a delegation of women, headed by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore of Chicago. President Roosevelt used the Civil War President's direct quotes.

"I have no word of encouragement to give," was the slow, blunt reply (from Mr. Lincoln). "The military situation is far from bright and the country knows it as well as I do."

"The President went on: 'The fact is the people have not yet made up their minds that we are at war with the South. They have not buckled down to the determination to fight this war through; for they have got the idea in their heads that we are going to get out of this fix somehow by strategy! That's the word—STRATEGY! General McClellan thinks he is going to whip the rebels by strategy; and the army has got the same notion. They have no idea that the war is to be hard, tough fighting, that it will hurt somebody; and no headway is going to be made while this delusion lasts.'"

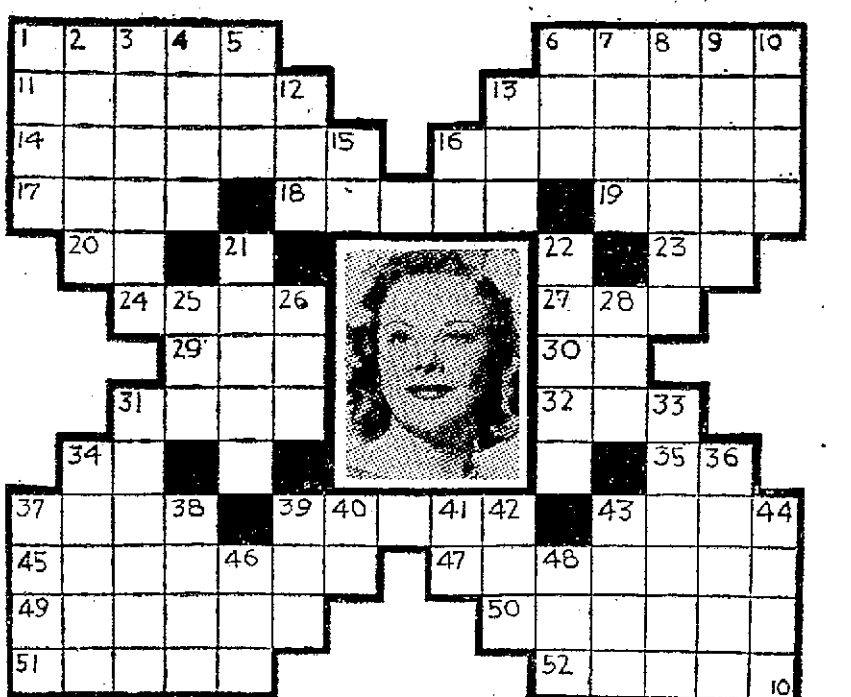

Even in August, when there was no Pearl Harbor, no loss of Manila, or Guam, or Wake, President Roosevelt's words seemed ominous. After moments of silence, one reporter asked how the President thought the "lead" on this story should be written. Mr. Roosevelt didn't hesitate. He said: "President quotes Lincoln and draws parallel."

IN THE hours and even days that followed, I remember the dozens of times that newsmen and official Washington asked: Just what DID the President mean? There were those who said he meant that we were approaching shooting war. There were those who contended he was only speaking figuratively.

But within a week or so, the "quotes from Lincoln" press conference was forgotten completely. It's only now that some are remembering and dragging it out for recommendation in the light of recent events and what now appears to lie ahead.

Remarkable Ability of Pianist Sidney Foster Charms, Delights Local Concert Membership

The superb recital presented last evening in the Woman's Club auditorium by Sidney Foster was more than sufficient proof to the large membership of the Warren Concert Association that music critics and hundreds of enthusiastic audiences all over the country haven't been wrong in acclaiming this young American pianist musician extraordinary and prophesying a brilliant future in music circles.

Despite several difficulties over which neither artist nor concert officers had control, the recital was one of the most satisfying ever given in the twelve years of the local association's existence.

Spontaneous and prolonged applause and an undivided attention of the audience were tributes to the young artist's capabilities.

He showed, when needed, a tremendous power, of a degree not associated with one of Mr. Foster's slight stature and produced with the same lack of effort that marked his most delicate pianissimo.

Also the topic of much comment was Mr. Foster's complete lack of the mannerisms that accomplish little but an eventual distraction. Simplicity and a natural charm were the keystone of a performance that was technically and artistically perfect.

His program numbers were sufficiently familiar to his listeners to add to their enjoyment and the omission of some of the early masters was fully compensated by inclusion of the latest works of the modern writers.

At the conclusion of his final number on the program, waves of applause swept over the auditorium, bringing him back for a pleasing study for left hand by Scriabin and breathtaking presentation of Weber's "Perpetual Motion".

Many members remained after the concert to greet Mr. Foster and to offer congratulations for what had proved another musical highlight in Warren.

URBANSKI'S GOAL GIVES DRAGONS 34-32 OVERTIME WIN

Bob Wright Outstanding for Locals; DeStephano Shoots Eight of Nine Gift Tosses

Jim Urbanski took careful aim, then let one go from the side of the court, and Warren's set-shot artist cashed in to give the Dragons a 34-32 victory over a terrific Johnsonburg quint last night in an overtime tussle on the Jay's court.

From start to finish the Johnnies caused the Blue and White charges plenty of trouble, and it took a three minute extra session to settle the issue in favor of the Kolpienners.

The locals managed to win their second Northern League triumph, only after a scrap they'll not soon forget, and an improving Johnsonburg High outfit gave the locals all the competition they'll want to see any time this season.

Taking a 9-5 lead in the first quarter, the Johnnies kept the Dragons eating from their hand and continued to lead at halftime by a count of 13-11, with the Kolpienners still waiting for an opportunity to go ahead of their hosts.

In a fast third session, however, the Warren cagers found the range and came out of the period with a one point lead at 23-22. Urbanski started things with a goal, Smith followed with a foul point, then DeStephano, who contributed eight points in nine chances to the Dragons, sunk two from the charity stripe before Bob Wright could counter with another from the field for Warren. Martin Smith continued the Dragon rally by also hitting the strings, but Franzak came back to do likewise for Johnsonburg.

Smith added a pair of foul shots but DeStephano diffused for the homesters. Wright then scored with a basket, followed with a foul after McCabe had made a gift shot for the losers, and so ended the scoring in that fast and thrilling contest.

The pace never slowed down through the entire five heats, and both teams were slugging up and down the court at the finish. Johnsonburg edged Warren 10-9 in the fourth quarter to knot the count at 32-all, were ahead until the last minute and 53 seconds. Then a technical foul was called against Zolowski, Johnsonburg guard, for alleged delay of the game, and Bob Wright, tied the free stripe and calmly shot a point leaving only one basket between the two teams.

Buerkle pierced Johnsonburg hopes when he tied the count, but they rose again a moment later as Tagano made one of two foul chances. Wright then followed through with another foul and a basket to put the Dragons in the lead, but Franzak hit the hoop with a 25-point shot seconds before the final whistle.

The teams volleyed back and forth across the mid-court stripe through half of the extra session before Warren gained complete possession of the sphere in their own front court. Slowly the Dragons passed the ball in and out, and then, all at once, over to Urbanski who was standing about 20 feet from the basket, on a 45 degree angle with the corner of the court. His crouch was slow, but the ball darted without waste of time, to the basket and through the strings and Johnsonburg was beaten.

Bob Wright deserves all the local laurels today, for a fine bit of work both offensively and defensively, while DeStephano was the big draw for the Johnnies, most through his foul line exhibition.

Tuesday night the Dragons seek their No. 3 triumph as they play host to Emporium on Beatty court.

After being boiled in water for a long time, meat falls to pieces and the substance which held the meat fibers together is dissolved in the water. This solution, when cooled, turns to jelly and it, in turn, is ordinary furniture glue when dried.

discuss details of the settlement, except to say that:

1. One western Pennsylvania district, predominantly Democratic, would be dropped.

2. Achtermann would confer with Senator M. Harvey Taylor, chairman of the Republicans on the ten-member committee before announcing details.

The committee agreed on December 9 that Republicans should drop one district, Democrats eliminate another, and one congressman would be elected at large. The Republicans decided to re-shuffle the northern tier counties to do away with the G. O. P.-dominated 16th district.

Governor James balked at calling the legislature into special session without detailed assurance from the Democrats that a bill would be passed. The Democratic members of the committee had declined to disclose the exact districting plan they had in mind.

Meyers called the Democratic committee members and the party chiefs in five western counties together yesterday, and said later: "We agreed upon a plan. The action was not unanimous, but we settled the question."

Achtermann said a canvass of the Democratic-controlled house indicated there were enough votes to pass the proposal.

Guffey Calls a Conference of State Leaders

An open primary, Meyers said, "is the only way I see for us to avert an open break in the party."

Meyers said several days ago that three candidates remained in the field, in his opinion—Guffey, Auditor General F. Clair Ross, and Dr. Luther A. Harr, Philadelphia, who managed Guffey's successful campaign for reelection to the senate in 1940.

The chairman altered that statement yesterday, after talking with Guffey, he said, and contended that Ross and Harr were the only candidates.

He asserted one of these men "I believe, will make a formal announcement within the next two weeks and the other one will follow with an announcement."

Silverton, Colo., Jan. 10.—(P)—Smoke choked out the lives of eight miners as they retreated in long tunnels in a futile effort to escape.

MERCER COUNTY TOWN HAS SERIOUS FIRE LOSS

Mercer, Jan. 10.—(P)—The two largest business buildings in the nearby hamlet of Jackson Center were destroyed last night in a fire of undetermined origin which caused loss estimated at $25,000.

The buildings housed the postoffice, a hardware store and restaurant. Mail and most of the postoffice equipment was saved but the restaurant and hardware store were total losses.

Firemen from Mercer, Stoneboro and Fredonia, battling the blaze in arctic weather, had difficulty in preventing the fire from spreading to nearby homes and other business buildings.

"This is the best way for Pennsylvania to help win the war," he asserted.

conference of Democratic and Republican legislators with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and his advisors yesterday.

Some members of the senate finance committee suggested, however, that the proposed changes would provide only relatively small portions of the $7,000,000,000 the president has requested in general taxes. About $2,000,000,000 in additional social security taxes is expected to be asked in separate legislation later.

Some members of congress began discussing the practicability of payroll or sales taxes. Others advocated increase excise levies on such commodities as liquor, tobacco and gas.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), a member of the senate finance committee, said it was becoming evident that either a withholding tax, with the government taking a percentage of each weekly pay check—or a retail sales levy would have to be resorted to if the president's budget requirements were to be met.

GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

Charles William Glavis, an attendant at the Warren State Hospital, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery when arraigned before Justice of the Peace T. Richard Evans this morning.

He was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs, in default of which he was ordered to spend sixty days in the county jail. Glavis was alleged to have assaulted Arvid Swanson, of Warren, in an altercation which took place at the hospital.

off the American west coast, meanwhile, were said by the navy to have been narrowed by coastal defense forces. Similarly, the navy reported that "operations continue against enemy submarines" in the central Pacific.

A report that an Axis submarine was operating in New England waters proved groundless. The navy said the area "has been thoroughly searched without tangible results."

Although communiques failed to disclose the disposition of General MacArthur's army, military officials expressed a belief that he had withdrawn his forces possibly 15 miles to a new Philippine defense line since repulsing the heavy Japanese assault last Sunday.

A war department spokesman said the new main defense front probably centered in a corner of Pampanga province, 30 to 50 miles north of the Corregidor fortress. Much of MacArthur's army appeared to be massed in the Batan peninsula, with Batan province and corners of Pampanga and Zambales provinces remaining in American possession, along with Subic bay and the secondary naval station at Olongapo.

Chapter Eight Warning Up Lavinia

AND Aunt Dorcas did meet with the approval of the two girls. Not only the girls, but Peter and Freddy also. They even Miss Dorcas with frank astonishment. Freddy, actually bristled at her across his eyes, as though to clear his vision—quite certain that he was seeing wrong. Then when he saw he wasn't seeing wrong, he warmed up to Miss Dorcas, paid her a lot of attention.

"Gosh!" he said on the way to the theatre. "Miss Dorcas. I can't believe you ever stood up and shot a bear."

Miss Dorcas laughed. "I only stood up long enough to shoot," she said, "then I sat down—very suddenly."

Freddy laughed, and the others joined in. All but Lavinia. She simply couldn't get used to the way Aunt Dorcas had of making light of her past life—that life she, Lavinia, had thought so much about, and admired. Sometimes it seemed like a sacred thing—Aunt Dorcas poking fun at the things she had done in long buried cities, and dark and forbidding jungles. But the others didn't feel that way, evidently.

"Going to wear that swank gown to our wedding, Aunt Dorcas?" Peter asked.

"Certainly she's not," said Zoe, before Miss Dorcas could reply. "This is an evening gown. She's got a flowing organdie for the wedding, and a floppy hat to match."

"She does," said Zoe. "Lavinia's got a beauty for the wedding also. Yellow—with touches of black. It makes her look like a debutante."

Freddy smiled at Lavinia. "Now," he said, "I've really got something to look forward to—seeing Lavinia Prentiss in yellow."

After the show they had wheat-cakes and coffee in a restaurant on Fifth Avenue. They sat and talked until one o'clock in the morning.

"It's been a perfectly swell party, Aunt Dorcas!" Peter said, when they came to a stop in front of Miss Dorcas's hotel. "I can't tell you how much I appreciate you doing it for us."

"Nonsense!" said Miss Dorcas. "I loved doing it. And if you two weren't in such a hurry to get married, we might have a regular round of parties."

"We've got to be married now," said Peter. "So I can use my vacation time for a honeymoon."

"Yes," said Zoe. "Besides, now is the time to rent an apartment—not wait until fall when everyone's moving." She smiled at Peter. "Do you realize, darling, that I worked my last day today at Arnyworth?"

"Yes!"

"I gave up my job—just for you!"

"I hope you never regret it."

"I won't—don't worry."

Lavinia shrugged and said "Aunt Dorcas, what a thing to say! You know I've never had any time for men—and—love affairs!"

"You make remarks about men now and then," Miss Dorcas said, "but that one would expect to hear only from women who had experienced a lot of men-trouble—and come out the wrong end of the horn."

Lavinia tried to think of something to say, and failed.

She was glad when Freddy Rand came in the same way, and a couple of old shoes, and some excitement started.

All the young people ran out after Peter and Zoe, pelting them with rice, and calling out good wishes. Freddy managed to tie the two shoes to the car, and he had a loaded Peter for his honeymoon—and one of the girls took the white ribbon from her flowers, and added that a rather festive look as it rolled away. Several girls wiped their eyes and said things about how much they were going to miss Zoe, but quickly added how they envied her the life which lay before her.

Then they began to drift away to keep dates with young men they would probably be marrying some day. And finally there was no one left but Miss Dorcas, Lavinia and Freddy.

"Freddy," Lavinia said, "you take Aunt Dorcas. I feel sort of head-ache. I have been pretty much on the go you know—being engaged, married, and all that."

"But, Lavinia," Freddy protested, "I—"

"It's all right," said Aunt Dorcas. She patted Freddy's arm. "Ask some other time. I'll trot along home with Lavinia."

Freddy looked from one to the other of the two women.

"It seems like a sort of anti-climax," he said. "I'm at loose ends and feel sort of a down."

"We're not call an Brass-Mars-shall," said Lavinia. "So, see you?"

"No, why should I be?" Zoe replied.

"The night before your wedding—a new life stretching out before you—all that."

Zoe turned down the covers. "I'm happy," she said. "That's all I can say." She sank down upon the side of the bed, and kicked off her slippers. "I hope, Lavinia, that one of these days you'll be as happy as I am."

"Oh, I'm happy!" said Lavinia. "Only not for the same reason, perhaps."

"Then for what reason?"

"Because Aunt Dorcas is back. She's going to live with me, and we can do a lot of things together."

"Is Freddy definitely out of the picture?"

"Definitely."

"Your aunt seems to like him."

"But she isn't the one who'd have to live with him—were there a marriage."

"Has Freddy spoken of marriage to you?"

"In a roundabout way. But I discouraged him."

"Why?"

"I don't love him. I have no intention of marrying."

"Still want to live a career woman's life, even after you see how hard your aunt is trying to change?"

"Yes. I still want to."

Always a Bridemaid

THEN another Sunday, and a wedding.

Zoe and Peter being married in the Little Church Around the Corner. Freddy, looking very solemn, standing beside Lavinia. And Miss Dorcas a little way behind the quartette. Soft music. Gentle words. Sunlight streaming through the stained glass windows and touching those present, softening them, giving the whole setting a sort of unreal appearance—ethereal—lovely. It was all very beautiful, and very solemn, and very impressive.

Miss Dorcas went a little when it was all over. So did several of the girls from the store, girls with whom Zoe had worked for a long while. But Lavinia shed not a tear.

Even when several people paid her compliments, commenting on the yellow dress with touches of black she didn't seem greatly moved. She merely said, "So glad you like it," and turned to someone else.

"Don't look so low," Miss Dorcas said to her. "It's a wedding, you know, and not a funeral."

"Sometimes I think there's a mighty little difference between the two," said Lavinia. "They both mean the end of one's career."

Miss Dorcas studied her niece for a moment. "I don't like hearing you make remarks like that," she said. "They sound hard and almost bitter. You aren't bitter, are you, Lavinia?"

"Heavens, no, Aunt Dorcas! What on earth would I be bitter about?"

"An unhappy love affair, maybe."

"Me—with such a thing?"

"Well, it's not exactly impossible. Besides, there are times when one would actually think some man had played you a mean trick."

"Aunt Dorcas, what a thing to say! You know I've never had any time for men—and—love affairs!"

"You make remarks about men now and then," Miss Dorcas said, "but that one would expect to hear only from women who had experienced a lot of men-trouble—and come out the wrong end of the horn."

Lavinia tried to think of something to say, and failed.

FLYING CADETS ARE ENROLLED BY LOCAL ELKS

In announcing plans for the enrollment here of applicants for the U. S. Army Aviation Cadets by the Warren Lodge of Elks, it was stated today by Harold D. Baker, chairman of the Elks' aviation committee, that going to Erie for physical examination next Thursday of local Civilian Pilot Training graduates will not obligate youths to join the service immediately.

It was reported yesterday that the local Elks would take a group of young men to Erie next week for physical examination with a view of signing them up for the Aviation Cadets with an opportunity to becoming commissioned officers in the air corps at the end of a seven to nine months training period.

Following the physical examination in Erie, which is given at no cost to the applicant, those who pass will be required to take a mental examination, which an army official told the local committee will be more in the nature of an I. Q. test than of specific subjects. Any high school graduate has a good chance of passing this phase of the examination, the officer said.

While those who pass the physical examination will not be required to join the Aviation Cadets immediately, they may do so if they wish. Those planning to enroll at once should take with them their birth certificate, three letters of recommendation from substantial business men of the community and if a college graduate, a transcript of credits.

It was pointed out that no married men are accepted in the Aviation Cadets, although married men may join the U. S. Air Corps. Any graduate of the Civilian Pilot Training here or any young man who holds a pilot's license acquired by private instruction will be taken to Erie with the first group. Any individuals not contacted by members of the Elks' aviation committee may obtain information by calling Mr. Baker at Baker's Cleaners Third avenue, or E. W. Hildum at the Times-Mirror office.
